6 p.m.—Cotton steady a season which promises to be the most alarm. The most striking feature is the fact that the banks are now in a less farm. Stock at noon this day... mayore worable condition than they were at the nothing special to report as to the business of the week. In all departments of trade things have been quiet, that is, the sales have not reached anything like a noticeable increase over what they are at the same time svery year. Drays were perhaps more actively employed than during the week previous but this was occasioned by the shifting of location by several of our largest wholesale grocery firms and the receiving of heavy additions to stocks already large. This accounts for any unusual stir apparent. Our banks are all of them in good confidence in the case of the country good as their capital will permit. They keep their business well in hand, are making their they are prident, they menifest a willingness to help and to advance in all proper ways the interests of one of the most energy class of the future and look forward to an active and prosperous season. They expect that Memphis will receive, as herstofore, at least one third the cotton cop of the South, and are making their surfagements up to that calculation. They will into the disappointed. We shall, if we do not at least make a gain of two per cent, on these figures. We are preessioned by the shifting of location by neveral of our largest wholesale grocery we do not at least make a gain of two back to the week under review, we find that cotton shared in the "quiet" that prevailed in the market. On Tuesday, the first day of our commercial week, the sales were very few, holders being firm; Midding being quoted at 19@19%c. On We'nesday there was some demand for own action secondingly. On Saturday the inquiry was light and sales few, Middlings being quoted at 18½6(18%). On Monday (to-day) the market was nominally quotable at the rates of Saturday. THE INDIAN COTTON PROSPECT.

The New York Commercial List, treating of the Indian cotton trade says the golden prime of her cotton industry passed away in 1865, when our civil war ended, and it is difficult to see how it can be extended, or even maintained at its present limit, seeing that the population of 200,000,000 must necessarily tread so closely the utmost food-producing power of the land that the least encreachment of cotton upon grain may inflict famine upon the whole provinces. Indeed, while the question of supply and demand in the matter of a bare subsistence remains so critically balanced, there is hardly more reason to anticipate that the growth of cotton for the European market will become the special industry of the ryots, than there is to anticipate that the same than there is to anticipate that the same thing will take place among the Chinese. There is no likelihood that India is going to absidon cotton culture, but when the price of the staple shall have settled some where near the normal base, through increasing supplies in our own country, it is reasonable to suppose that her production will fall off, since other forms of industry will be found more profitable. Meanwhile, in exchange for twenty millions' worth of English fabrics, India sends out to England and the colonies £8,000,000 worth of agricultural produce, besides the value of her surplus opium and of the million bales of cotton which yearly help to feed the mills of Lanesshire.

POBE, LARD, ETC. season. The total receipts for the season so far foot up over 220,000 bales, an excess of 43,000 over the previous season. This excess should be more than doubted in 1870-71, and will be if our merchants and railroads but work harmoniously and as if actuated by one impulse for the common good. Pleking has commenced in many sections accompanied with an apparent anxiety on the part of not a few planters to put their cotton on the market early. There is consequently an increasing demand for bagging which sells very high, so high that country. However, like everything else, (and this the planting community should remember) bagging is subject to the laws of trade and is no doubt offered as cheaply in Memphis as in any other of the markets of the southwest. Bellow we publish a valuable and reliable review of the colton trade of the world, showing receipts, stocks, imports and exports and the general prospect. Also the boot and the general prospect. Also the of September, we will furnish our annual statement of the trade and commerce of our city, in which we propose to show an increase, a rapid increase in all branches of trade and business in Memphis during the year, commencing with the 1st of September, 1869 and ending with the 1st excess of the demand to-day, and several banks were anxious to sell to their neighbors, but all seemed amply supplied.

This press must commend itself to the cotton planters of the Southern States for durability simplicity of construction, and ease with which it can be operated by with hand, horse, train or seems potent the change from one to the other being effected in a few minutes. A great advantage this Press possesses is that occupies for hand power only a space of fourteen feet square, and may be placed and operated in a gin-boase, thus avoiding the necessity of taking cotton out of the boare to be picked. It can be used in any kind of weather; the Press leng in the house rainy days are no obstacle to picking, as is discuss with wooden screws. Another sdrastage is, when you get Schoffeld's Press, you have a Fress for all time, and one not liable to decay or break, as is the case with the old worden access and most other iron screws and pleases. This is evident from the fact that the screw is from either wrought or cost, and the traines are of writing in the land are part of the Press libble in decay touches the ground. The frames may be made of wood, at the option of the planter, Planters may purchase either the screw and not almost a figure, and put the wooden box to it the mastives, or may purchase the active, not send in it frames, and put the wooden box to it the mastives, or may purchase the active, not send in frames, and put the wooden box to it the most complice Press in use. Presses complete, as instinanced are in mor general use, and sive west satisfaction to all parties using them, as will be seen from letters in my possession, a .ew of which may be found elsewhere in this circular, and could furnish throughes.

HAND POWER Administrator's Sale of Real Estate

Horse Power Press! PRICES SAME, AS HAND POWER PRESS.

This Press, of two-horse power, may be of either cast or wrought-iron acrews; wrought-iron acrews being cut with three-inch pitch for Horse Power. It may be put up either with or without fron frame—an iron frame being preferable, as it cannot break, and will never need repairs, as is the case with wood. In putting them up complete at my establishment they do not differ from the Hand Power only in pitch of thread of screw, and different kind of levers for working. One horse can pack five to eight hundred pounds on this Press, J. S. SCHOFIELD, Proprietor. That planters may get their Presses in time, will take in payment warehouse acceptance, due October I, 1870, at cost prices, as above.

Schofield's Patent Cotton Press received the First Premium at the Georgia State Fair for 1869. It was proved superior to anything for plantation cotton packing on the ground. It is put up more substantially, is more simple and efficient than any cotton press in use. There is nothing complicated or to get out of order about it, and after being used twenty years, will be as good as new. Lever presses will not do, they will get out of order, and in a lew rounts become a useless article, and are displaced by a screw press.

This cotton press is fast displacing the old wood screw and other presses, and of over 500 presses sold fast season. I have not heard a complaint from one; but on the contrary, and alily in receipt of letters from the first planters of all the Cotton States certifying to their efficacy, and expressing their opinion that it is superior to all others.

Also Wilcox's Improved Horse Power, Superior to any in use for Ginning Cotton. Made only at SCHOFIELD'S IRON WORKS, as joining Passenger Depot, MACON, GA.
